SPECIAL WORDS TO INSPIRE ONE TO BE WITH JESUS IN PRAYER . . .

Tell God all that is in your heart, as one unloads one's heart, its pleasures and its pains, to a dear friend. Tell God your troubles, that God may comfort you; tell God your joys, that God may sober them; tell God your longings, that God may purify them; tell God your dislikes, that God may help you conquer them; talk to God of your temptations, that God may shield you from them: show God the wounds of your heart, that God may heal them. If you thus pour out all your weaknesses, needs, troubles, there will be no lack of what to say. Talk out of the abundance of the heart, without consideration say just what you think. Blessed are they who attain to such familiar, unreserved dialogue with God" – Archbishop Francois Fenelon d. 1715

"At the moment, I really feel the need to talk with you, now that those questions I kept hidden inside me for so long, closed in and chained, have finally exploded. Finally... everything conspired and conspires against me, everything; even my mother told me, "Don't worry, this sadness will pass," or, "Don't think about it." But it never has passed, and I have never stopped thinking about it because it's a gripping need for meaning that never leaves me, and torments me without letting go, every moment of every day, without respite.

Everyone has tried to tame me, tranquilize me, keep me from suffering, and make everything more bearable, to sedate a restless heart that never had any intention of stopping its desiring and asking for more. Then you arrived. I've never had a friend like you. You're the only one who wasn't scared of or scandalized by my pain and my desire for the infinite. Nobody has ever looked at me this way. My heart trembled, vibrated like never before. I was suddenly invaded by the bitter awareness that till now nobody has ever looked at me the way I truly desired; everyone has set aside my uncomfortable need, sharing everything with me except what was indispensable. But a life that doesn't consider my humanity, my most visceral and profound requests isn't life, nor is it even death; it's only a desperate cry. I can't push aside my search for meaning; otherwise, I'll suffocate. I just can't go on; everything is equal, flat, useless, boring, and terribly unbearable.

The encounter with you created in me a demand for my whole life, every second, and I don't want to live for anything less. You ignited a passion in me, a passion never before experienced. I need to have people alongside me who are equal to the thought that dominates my life, people I can talk to about what is truly worthwhile. I want to be with you because you don't reduce me, or deny me, or mortify me; you don't console me and don't try to give me an answer. You don't try to distract me or cheer me up, but you share with me the expectation, the entreaty, the nobility of pain, the greatness of this unbounded desire and the disproportion it creates. I need you because you make me look in the face, and stay in front of this terrible but dear pain that makes me so human."

From a letter cited in DISARMING BEAUTY by Fr. Julian Carron

MASS REFLECTION

Fear the Lord, your God. (Deuteronomy 6:2)

What does it mean to fear the Lord? Should we really be afraid of him? Well, we should never minimize these words since they appear more than three hundred times in Scripture. But fearing God is not the same as living in terror of him. It's more about having a proper reverence for him.

As with so many other truths in the Bible, fearing the Lord is a different thing than the earthly kind of fear we are all familiar with. It is a positive disposition, not a negative one. It's a way of building our faith and deepening our relationship with God, not keeping us distant from him.

At its heart, fear of God helps us to say no to our sinful desires. It functions more as a way of protection than as a means of oppression. It's fear of God that moves us to say, "I don't want to say or do anything that will cause me to be separated from my heavenly Father."

Parents instill a similar "loving fear" in their children. They teach their children to stay within certain boundaries of speech and behavior so that they can grow up to be responsible, respectful adults. For their part, children know that consequences will follow if they cross these boundary lines. And so a certain "loving fear" lays the foundation for wisdom in the children. It's in a similar way that Scripture tells us that "fear of the Lord" is the beginning of wisdom (Proverbs 9:10).

Fear of the Lord is a tool that keeps us safe as we grow and mature. And like all learning tools, it is helpful for only a time. Eventually, this godly fear should give way to love, because "perfect love drives out fear" (1 John 4:18). This is a lifelong process, of course, but it's encouraging to know that even godly fear can dissipate as love grows.

So let's all take to heart God's greatest commands: "Love the Lord, your God, with all your heart" and "Love your neighbor as yourself" (Deuteronomy 6:5; Leviticus 19:18).

"Jesus, help me live the most perfect way of love."
